

Acer palmatum 'Dissectum Seiyru'

An attractive small tree with lacy leaves that turn gold to crimson in autumn. A good selection for courtyards and small gardens where there is protection from full sun. Its light green new growth provides a striking contrast against older foliage.

Uses

Like the other Japanese Maples, this tree is suitable for smaller gardens and courtyards with protection from full sun and hot winds.

Preferred Position & Soil

Prefers a moist, well drained soil in a protected area of the landscape.
