

Acacia cognata 'River Cascade'

This is a graceful weeping shrub with fine bright green foliage that forms a rounded bush about 75cm tall and a metre wide. The leaves give a soft appearance and is soft to the touch. They are pale green in colour and have yellow flowers produced in spring.

This is a good selection for low hedges and for great texture and colour in small to large gardens. Can be kept in containers or used in group planting.

Frost hardy and suitable for positions in full sun to part shade. Will tolerate most soils but does prefer a well drained soil. A native fertiliser is preferred. Low maintenance once established.
