

Arbutus x andrachnoides

GRECIAN / GREEK STRAWBERRY TREE (HYBRID)

This is a small to medium evergreen tree with an attractive burnt-orange bark and mid-green leaves. Lily of the Valley-like greenish-white flowers are borne in spring and hang in clusters. The strawberry-looking fruit ripen in autumn. This tree is a hybrid between Arbutus andrachne × Arbutus unedo strawberry trees.

Due to its size, pretty bark and flowers, this makes a great informal hedge or specimen tree in any size garden.

It is tolerant of high winds, salt air and full sun. Prefers a humus rich well drained soil.
