

Corymbia ficifolia 'Calypso'

One of the new selections of smaller, grafted natives. 'Calypso' is a beautiful tree. Its compact nature makes it suitable for feature planting in domestic landscapes. Its foliage is dark green and leathery and over the summer months, it is awash with a stunning display of salmon pink flowers, followed by urn-shaped gumnuts. Rich in nectar, this is a great bird attracting tree.

As a feature tree for gardens and public open spaces. Suitable for street planting.

Natives generally prefer a humus rich soil but will tolerate a broad array of conditions. Plant in full sun.
